Undoubtedly all the Chicago and Milwaukse exchanges for the past month and much more for the past week, including September 3d, were inflated by speculation, but a comparison with other cities shows that the increase due to speculative dealings must have been small. The following shows the amount of exchanges for the week ending September 3d, for the month of August, except as specified;

Cole were also found at Charleston, and a family named Tusela in Paris township. Mrs. Debert and her three children were fire with a rapidity that often prevented es-cape. This afternoon the direction of the wind changed, and it is feared that this will add new destruction by sending the flames over sections that had escaped. It is much cooler to-night, which is favorable in that respect, but the wind is high and the country
